

Reviews: Final showings at S.F.'s Frameline 39 LGBTQ fest

By David Lewis

June 16, 2015 – one of a handful of reviews for the festival in this article:

"Mind/Game: The Unquiet Journey of Chamique Holdsclaw" is a complex profile of the star basketball player. Mind/Game: The Unquiet Journey of Chamique Holdsclaw Chamique Holdsclaw, the All-Everything basketball star from the University of Tennessee, was in the closet, but her big secret wasn't her lesbianism. It was her mental illness, an unchecked problem that almost destroyed a superstar beloved for her sweet court moves and passion for the game. Bay Area documentarian Rick Goldsmith, a two-time Oscar nominee, sensitively explores Holdsclaw's journey from suppressed athlete to mental health advocate, a journey not without its setbacks. Narrated by Glenn Close, the film sheds light on this likable athlete and provides a glimpse into the insular world of sports, where coming out — of any sort — remains a heavy burden. 9:30 p.m., June 26, Roxie; United States, 56 minutes

From: <http://www.sfgate.com/movies/article/Reviews-Final-showings-at-S-F-s-Frameline-39-6318828.php>